

I would like to respond to how successful the telephone privacy law has been for me. I do not to like be interrupted at home when I am involved with some project or event by unwanted phone calls. Because of this, I screen my calls, since I do not receive a lot of personal calls. Before I had signed up, I was getting so many calls a day, which would hang up when the answering machine would pick up, that I had turned off the ringer on the phone to keep from being disturbed each time it rang. Now that all those unwanted calls have stopped, I can actually answer the phone without screening it. I Implore you to not change this law, it has really made my time at home much more enjoyable and relaxing. I think that is worthy of an individual's rights.
